Welcome

On behalf of TBS and the Conservatoire Concert Series, I welcome you to this special concert dedicated to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach.

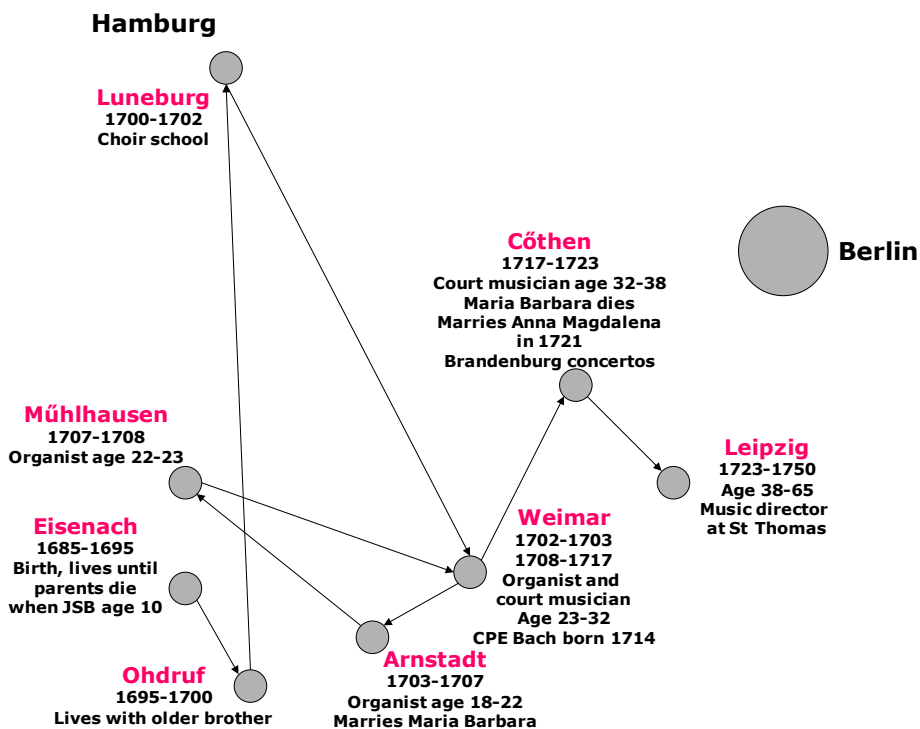

Being part of the Tilford Bach Society, I felt that it is only fitting to initiate our third year of the Conservatoire Concert Series by dedicating a day to JS Bach and his music. We all know what a prolific composer Bach was and how revered he is by all musicians. Thus it was not difficult to find a number of dedicated musicians who were willing to come together and perform some of Bach's most famous works tonight. They have all worked very hard to produce this programme for you and we hope you will enjoy this concert as much as we enjoyed putting it all together.

As I mentioned earlier, this concert marks the beginning of the third year for Conservatoire Concerts Series. Thanks to your support and generosity, we have managed to provide a performing platform to numerous musicians and ensembles, all of whom are grateful for the opportunities we have given them. All this has been possible thanks to John Horrocks, chairman of TBS for his unfailing trust in me and embracing me in the TBS; my husband Edward Fenech, for his patience, inspiration, support and unlimited encouragement and finally you, the audience without whom all this would not be possible.

For this, I thank you all for this wonderful journey. Let us carry on enjoying these musical experiences together.
